1 THE CLERK: United States against Eric Prokopi.
2 Counsel, please state your name for the record.

3 MR. MARTIN BELL: Martin Bell for the Government.
4 Good afternoon, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Good afternoon.

6 MR. GEORGES LEDERMAN: George Lederman, that's L-7 E-D-E-R-M-A-N, for Mr. Eric Prokopi. Good afternoon, Your 8 Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay, good afternoon. Mr. Prokopi, 10 my name is Magistrate Judge Pitman. The purpose of this 11 proceeding is to inform you of certain rights that you have, 12 to inform you of the charges against you, excuse me, to 13 consider whether counsel should be appointed for you, and to 14 decide under what conditions, if any, you should be 15 released.

16 Was the defendant arrested, or did he surrender
17 here today?

18 MR. BELL: He surrendered here this morning, Your 19 Honor, after originally being arrested last week in 20 Gainesville, Florida. He was presented there last 21 Wednesday, the 17th, pursuant to Rule 5(c)(3).

22 THE COURT: And when did he surrender today?

23 MR. BELL: At approximately 11 o'clock, maybe a 24 little earlier.

25 MR. LEDERMAN: Actually, it was about 10:30, Your

1 Honor.

2 THE COURT: All right, thank you. Mr. Prokopi, 3 you have the right to remain silent. You're not required to 4 make any statements. Even if you have made statements to 5 the authorities, you need not make any further statements.
6 Anything you do say can be used against you.

7 You have the right to be released either
8 conditionally or unconditionally pending trial unless I find 9 that there are no conditions or combination of conditions 10 that would reasonably assure your presence in court and the 11 safety of the community.

12 You have the right to be represented by counsel 13 during all court proceedings, including this one, and during 14 all questioning by the authorities. If you could not afford 15 an attorney, I will appoint one to represent you. It's my 16 understanding that you're currently represented by retained 17 counsel, but the right to the appointment of counsel is an 18 ongoing right you possess throughout these proceedings. If 19 at any time you're unable to continue with retained counsel 20 because you run out of money, you can apply to the court at 21 any time for the appointment of counsel. Do you understand 22 that?

23 MR. ERIC PROKOPI: Yes.

24 THE COURT: Mr. Prokopi, you're charged in a 25 complaint in three counts. Count 1 charges you with

1 violating Title 18 U.S.C. § 371. That statute makes it a 2 crime to conspire or to agree with others to violate the 3 laws of the United States. In count 1 you're charged with 4 conspiring to commit the offenses of smuggling, sale or 5 receipt of stolen property, and the making of false 6 statements to a federal official.

7 In count 2 you're charged with violating Title 18
8 U.S.C. § 545. That statute, in plain language that statute
9 makes it a crime to smuggle goods into the United States.
10 And in court 3 you're charged with violating Title 18 U.S.C.
11 § 2315 which prohibits the sale or receipt of stolen goods 12 which have been transported in interstate or foreign 13 commerce.

14 In general terms, the charges against you arise
15 out of your alleged participation in the importation, 16 receipt, and attempts to sell fossilized dinosaur bones.
17 Mr. Prokopi, have you received a copy of the complaint?

18 MR. PROKOPI: Yes.

19 THE COURT: I'm sorry, this should have been 20 directed to Mr. Lederman, excuse me. Mr. Lederman, have you 21 received a copy of the complaint?

22 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes, I have, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: And have you reviewed it with your 24 client?

25 MR. LEDERMAN: I have, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: And do you waive its reading?

2 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes, we do.

3 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Prokopi, you have the 4 right to a preliminary hearing at which the Government will 5 have the burden of establishing that there's probable cause 6 to believe that the crimes charged in the complaint have 7 been committed and you're the person who committed them. If 8 probable cause is not established, you'll be released from 9 the charges. If probable cause is established, the 10 Government will then have the right to proceed to trial 11 against you.

12 If you're in custody, you have the right to a 13 preliminary hearing within 14 days. If you're not in 14 custody, you have the right to a preliminary hearing within 15 21 days. However - within 20 days, excuse me. However, no
16 preliminary hearing will be held if either the grand jury
17 indicts you or if the Government files an accusatory 18 instrument called an information prior to the date set for 19 the preliminary hearing. I'll set the preliminary hearing
20 date after I determine bail. I'll hear from the Government 21 first, then I'll hear from defense counsel. Mr. Bell.

22 MR. BELL: Yes, Your Honor. Having spoken to Mr.
23 Lederman, I think it's safe to say that the parties disagree
24 some on bail, and so I'll make an argument concerning Mr.
25 Prokopi's risk of flight.

1 It may be worth setting the stage some though.
2 Mr. Prokopi's currently on bail after last week's 3 presentment on conditions that included a surety bond in the 4 amount of $100,000 listing his Florida property, his 5 Gainesville property as security, and then a number of 6 conditions that are fairly standard, but the most noteworthy
7 among these is that, as least so far as I was aware, no one 8 other than his wife, Miss Amanda Prokopi, had to sign the 9 bond.

10 The Government requests that going forward these 11 conditions be somewhat stricter. Specifically, the 12 Government asks that Mr. Prokopi's release be continued as a 13 $600,000 bond, again, secured by Mr. Prokopi's property and 14 cosigned by two financially responsible persons other than 15 his wife. And I'll get into why.

16 You've read the complaint at this point. I know 17 that this is somewhat of an unusual case involving an 18 unusual illegal market in dinosaurs. The major - the 19 initial concern that the Government has is evidence that 20 it's uncovered even since the execution of the warrant based 21 on that complaint that show that this market and Mr.
22 Prokopi's participating in it is still something very much 23 active and affects his ability to access finances that could 24 deepen his - that make him more of a flight risk.

25 On the very day of his arrest last Wednesday, as

1 officials had taken him into custody and were in the process
2 of searching his Gainesville residence, a delivery truck
3 rolled up to Mr. Prokopi's home, containing a package, a 4 six-foot crate, 400 pounds in weight, addressed to him at 5 that home address. That, as we learned after obtaining 6 another search warrant, contained yet another dinosaur, an 7 oviraptor that we believe is a dinosaur, whose genus and 8 species name are Oviraptor mongoliensis. Having read the 9 complaint, Your Honor can probably see where we're going.
10 This is another Mongolian dinosaur, one that we believe had 11 been the subject of continued negotiations between Mr.
12 Prokopi and the gallery in California.

13 The market price of such a dinosaur, so far as 14 we're able to establish from the emails, would be north of 15 $75,000 to $100,000. And the glaring thing here is, given 16 the recency of that conduct the sheer quantity of dinosaurs 17 that Mr. Prokopi has dealt with, dealt in, as alleged in the 18 complaint --

19 THE COURT: Do we know whether the dinosaur that 20 was delivered, or the fossils that were delivered last week 21 are stolen?

22 MR. BELL: We don't know for certain, but we can 23 infer, based on several things, that they are, which is to 24 say we've done research on the Oviraptor mongoliensis. It's 25 only been found in Mongolia, which is something that

1 distinguishes a number of dinosaur fossils at the heart of 2 this case.

3 We know from the Mongolian government, as alleged 4 in the complaint, a number of things, that all dinosaur
5 fossils found within Mongolia are under Mongolian law state 6 property, which is to say that they can't be removed from 7 the country.

8 THE COURT: Does the Mongolian government ever 9 sell them?

10 MR. BELL: It's possible that the Mongolian 11 government sells them, but that seems to be rare, largely 12 because I think Mongolia depends in large - Mongolia, from a 13 tourism standpoint, I think depends on some degree of fossil 14 tourism. What they have told us is that they have never 15 made dinosaurs available legally to Mr. Prokopi or the other 16 individuals --

17 THE COURT: What is the - the fossil tourism you 18 described is what exactly?

19 MR. BELL: That is --

20 THE COURT: It's not people going there to dig 21 them up.

22 MR. BELL: No, no, no, it is a matter of people 23 being able to go in and see fossils, either fossils that 24 have been dug up or fossils that still exist in like a 25 partially excavated state.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. BELL: So there's that in the first instance.
3 During the search of Mr. Prokopi's home, we found a note
4 that I'll pass up to Your Honor and I'll supply Mr. Lederman
5 with a copy as well.

6 (pause in proceeding)

7 THE COURT: Thank you.

8 MR. BELL: This is a handwritten note from Mr.
9 Prokopi to an individual named Chris, an individual who we 10 understand to be a British citizen named Christopher Moore
11 with whom Mr. Prokopi does a decent amount of his fossil 12 business. You can read the note, but just by way of summary 13 --

14 THE COURT: I'll tell you what, give me a second 15 and I'll read it, okay?

16 MR. BELL: Sure.

17 (pause in proceeding)

18 THE COURT: All right, go ahead.

19 MR. BELL: So a couple of highlights here, Your 20 Honor. One, at best, this note represents a clear example 21 of coconspirators attempting to get their stories straight.
22 At worst, it represents obstruction of justice. But what's 23 alarming with respect to the bail issues that we have here 24 is that they talk about a tarbo, I forget where the tarbo is 25 referenced, but, as Your Honor knows from reading the

1 complaint, tarbo most likely refers to tarbosaurus. And our 2 information, from having Mr. Prokopi's emails, is that there
3 was a second tarbosaurus out there that Mr. Prokopi was 4 attempting to unload. If he was successful in doing so, the 5 sale of that dinosaur could result in hundreds of thousands 6 of dollars in profit.

7 The smaller tarbosaur, the one that was sold
8 through Heritage Auction, pending the outcome of proceedings
9 with the Mongolians trying to get their dinosaur back, sold 10 for a million dollars. If you've got a larger dinosaur, 11 albeit one that exists within the black market, we just 12 don't know what additional resources Mr. Prokopi may have 13 acquired recently or may be able to obtain through the sale 14 of this or other dinosaurs.

15 I mean, again, Your Honor, it's striking that the 16 very day we show up with an arrest warrant, which could have 17 been picked at random, there was another dinosaur 18 potentially worth six figures being dropped off to his 19 house.

20 Beyond that, Your Honor, I would also --

21 THE COURT: I'm still not sure - I appreciate 22 what that - I think I appreciate what that means with 23 respect to the strength of the case against him and what 24 this note may mean with respect to the strength of the case
25 against him, but can you explain to me how this aggravates

1 the risk of flight or how this suggests there's a risk of 2 non-appearance?

3 MR. BELL: Well --

4 THE COURT: I would think that, I mean maybe you
5 know, I'm sure you know more about it than I do, but I mean
6 are, is there an underground market in dinosaur fossils? I 7 thought these were sold at auction in public sales.

8 MR. BELL: Your Honor, I suggest two things on 9 the underground nature of the market. Number one, I'd 10 suggest that there is a black market in dinosaur fossils and 11 that that's most evident from the complaint where Mr.
12 Prokopi's acknowledges that in his email to the individual 13 at Heritage Auction. But, number two, to the extent that 14 historically there hasn't been terribly much enforcement of 15 these sales, a lot of illegal activity has been able to 16 happen in plain sight.

17 At the point at which I walk into an auction 18 setting and I'm several hands removed away from the 19 individuals who may have excavated this creature from its 20 native habitat, unless you're dealing with paleontologists
21 who make enough of a stink of this to go to law enforcement, 22 there's a very real possibility that in what essentially is 23 a black market could hide in plain sight.

24 There haven't been very many federal cases or 25 cases at all in which people have been prosecuted for this

1 sort of misconduct. That's emboldening. It's sufficiently 2 emboldening that these sorts of sales could happen --

3 THE COURT: Well, I'm not sure there's exactly a 4 crime wave. I'm not sure how emboldening it's been. I'm 5 not sure you would characterize - maybe you would. I mean
6 is there a veritable crime wave of illicit dinosaur bone
7 sales --

8 MR. BELL: Relative to the amount of --

9 THE COURT: -- threatening our republic?

10 MR. BELL: Crime wave is a sort of funny term,
11 Your Honor, but I would suggest that the amount of sales 12 that take place, given what we've learned over the course of 13 this investigation, far exceeds the level of enforcement 14 that's existed to this time. What I would also --

15 THE COURT: I'm still trying to - I'm still 16 having a problem of tying this though to the risk of non-17 appearance.

18 MR. BELL: Sure. Perhaps --

19 THE COURT: Especially in light of the fact that 20 Mr. Prokopi voluntarily surrendered today.

21 MR. BELL: Sure. What I would suggest, Your 22 Honor, is that it ties in - maybe the best to under - maybe 23 the best way to cast this is that it ties into a number of 24 traditional factors of non-appearance.

25 Mr. Prokopi clearly has ties overseas, and I think

1 it says something about the concerns about those ties, that 2 among those ties is Christopher Moore, somebody who appears
3 to be a coconspirator. Beyond that, it emphasizes the fact
4 that Mr. Prokopi, for what financial difficulties he may 5 have in some sense, he's a person who's sitting on top of,
6 by his own estimation and his own estimates to Pre-Trial,
7 about half a million dollars' worth of dinosaur fossils. I
8 don't know how many of those are illegal, and I don't know 9 how many of those are the subject of possible sales. But to 10 the extent that we tend to look at an individual's financial 11 means as a basis for risk of flight, that's a concern.

12 More to the point, the present conditions are 13 insufficient if only because the only person who's had to 14 cosign the bail is, A, his wife and, B, his business 15 partner.

16 THE COURT: Well, yeah, but I mean he also has 17 his criminal record, I'm not even sure this is a criminal 18 record. He's got two traffic citations and he's married for 19 11 years. Seems to have a stable residence, two young 20 children. I mean those are ties to the community also. To 21 his relevant community, his community in Florida.

22 MR. BELL: I mean they - I'd say two things.
23 One, with respect to ties to community, I think they're ties
24 to community that exist entirely within his home. I mean
25 he's lived there for, he's lived in Gainesville for quite a

1 while, but there's nobody else on the hook for whatever bond
2 exists should he and his wife both leave. And to the extent
3 that his wife co-owns a business that the complaint alleges 4 is pervaded with fraud, there's a risk of liability on her 5 part as well.

6 What I would also suggest is that although Mr.
7 Prokopi doesn't have much of a criminal history --

8 THE COURT: I don't know, why do you say pervaded
9 with fraud? I thought the complaint talks about less than 10 half a dozen skeletons, doesn't it?

11 MR. BELL: The complaint talks about less than 12 half a dozen skeletons, although I would suggest that with 13 respect to cash flow, if you've got a million dollar 14 dinosaur here and a $200,000 dinosaur there, it doesn't take 15 terribly much. And there are --

16 THE COURT: I mean --

17 MR. BELL: I would further represent, Your Honor 18 --

19 THE COURT: It may depend on what the profit
20 margin is, but - you know, pervaded with fraud, it's fairly 21 strong language. I'm not sure - I'm not sure there's 22 something here that shows that the business is pervaded with 23 fraud.

24 MR. BELL: Your Honor, Special Agent Brasier, 25 who, unfortunately, couldn't be here today, undertook a

1 review of Mr. Prokopi's emails. The emails were primarily 2 business related. Almost exclusive business related. And 3 of the dinosaur species that were discussed there, and 4 numerous of them, numerous dinosaurs were discussed, the 5 majority of the dinosaur skeletons discussed were of 6 Mongolian or likely of Mongolian origin, which, given the 7 facts we have, would make them per se illegal. The 8 overwhelming majority of the fossils discussed were dinosaur
9 fossils, and among those dinosaur fossils, the overwhelming
10 majority of them discussed were Mongolian dinosaur fossils.

11 I mean to the extent that everything earth may 12 also sell, you know, some natural looking costume jewelry 13 here and there, I don't think that disturbs what I think is 14 a reasonable inference that there's something very troubling 15 about the business.

16 Beyond that, Your Honor, I would note that 17 although Mr. Prokopi doesn't have much of a criminal history 18 as traditionally measured, he does --

19 THE COURT: I don't know if the traffic
20 violations are criminal offenses. I don't know if he has 21 any criminal history.

22 MR. BELL: Correct. What he does, however, have 23 a dinosaur site raiding history. I'm going to hand up 24 another, whatever, and hand this to Mr. Lederman as well.

25 This is a letter from February of 1993 from the

1 then president of the Florida Paleontological Society, a Dr.
2 David Webb. And you can take a moment to read the letter
3 yourself, and perhaps it's best if I let you do that.

4 THE COURT: Yeah, just give me one second to read 5 this.

6 MR. BELL: Sure.

7 (pause in proceeding)

8 THE COURT: All right, well, the opening
9 paragraphs reads, well, it's a letter - well, let me back 10 up. It's a letter from a Dr. S. David Webb, Curator of 11 Fossil Vertebrates at the Florida Museum of Natural History, 12 addressed to Mr. Prokopi, and the opening paragraph reads, 13 "I'm deeply dismayed to learn that you recently raided the 14 museums active fossil operation in the Haley Quarries east
15 of Newberry. Surely you must know that this is altogether 16 unethical behavior with respect to the museum's professional 17 staff, with respect to the landowner's rights, and with 18 respect to all of the legitimate amateur paleontologists in 19 the Florida Paleontological Society."

20 Do we know what conduct this is describing, Mr.
21 Bell?

22 MR. BELL: We do, Your Honor. I've spoken to Dr.
23 Webb who's since retired. I think he runs a bed and 24 breakfast in Montana now. I've also spoken to two 25 professors who are currently with the Florida Museum of

1 Natural History, and they've informed me that in 1993 and,
2 again, over at some point in the past, seven years, Mr.
3 Prokopi was cited by the Society for raiding private fossil 4 excavations after hours that the Paleontological Society had 5 been using.

6 At one point he was ordered or at least it was 7 requested by the Society that he turn over some several 8 hundred pieces of fossils that he had taken. One of the 9 doctors I spoke to, Dr. Richard --

10 THE COURT: When you say raiding, was he - what 11 exactly was he doing? Was he going onto private property 12 without permission and pilfering through an excavation?

13 MR. BELL: Yes, Your Honor, this is private 14 property, in that instance, private property at a quarry
15 that the owner of the quarry had allowed the Florida
16 Paleontological Society to use for its digs, given that it
17 seemed to be fertile ground for fossil excavation. And Mr.
18 Prokopi went there on his own without permission and 19 extracted items. This happened in 1993, this happened again 20 in I believe it was 2005 or 2006, at least as told to me by 21 Dr. Holberg earlier today.

22 The unfortunate temptation is to suggest something 23 about what could be at the cause of this, but at the very 24 least there has been a lawless quality to Mr. Prokopi's --

25 THE COURT: Did the owner of the quarry file a

1 complaint?

2 MR. BELL: No, Your Honor, at least that's my 3 understanding from Dr. Holberg. I think that there was a 4 point at which items were returned, and the owner was 5 satisfied.

6 THE COURT: Well --

7 MR. BELL: And, again, I recognize, Your Honor, 8 that those --

9 THE COURT: If there's any violation of rights
10 though, based on what you're describing, if anyone's rights
11 are violated, I guess it's the owner of the quarry. I mean
12 does the - well, did the Florida Museum of Natural History 13 have rights in the fossils still in the ground on someone 14 else's property?

15 MR. BELL: Your Honor, with respect to one of the 16 digs, there was - the dig was run I believe it was a Dr.
17 Robert Chandler. I haven't gotten the chance to speak to 18 Dr. Chandler yet. He was a post-doctoral student at the 19 University of Florida at the time. He's now a professor 20 somewhere else in Georgia. I don't know what his actual, 21 what the legal status of his property interest in the things 22 in the ground would have been, but at the very least whether 23 that property belongs to, that property interest belongs to 24 Dr. Chandler or whether it belongs to the owners of the 25 Haley Quarry, east of Newberry, Florida, the individual it

1 didn't belong to is Mr. Prokopi.

2 What we have here is a sustained conduct, foreign,
3 domestic, you know, international dealings or small time 4 looting in dinosaurs. And the concern given that the 5 pervasive nature of the conduct is that --

6 THE COURT: You say sustained conduct, I mean you 7 cite something, you cite an event 18 years ago, and the 8 complaint talks about events in 2010 and 2012.

9 MR. BELL: I've also referenced another event 10 within the 2005 to 2007 range. It's not constant, Your 11 Honor, but with respect to the pervasive characterization, 12 it's a lot more frequently than other people steal 13 dinosaurs.

14 THE COURT: I'm not rising to the bait. Go 15 ahead.

16 MR. BELL: Beyond that, Your Honor, I would 17 suggest that between what appears to be active obstruction, 18 between what appears within the current conditions to be a 19 woeful lack of someone who'd be on the hook if Mr. Prokopi
20 and his wife were to leave the country. Beyond Mr. Prokopi 21 and his wife, and between what could be a fair amount of 22 money well beyond the half a million dollars in dinosaur 23 fossils that Mr. Prokopi actively acknowledges having in his 24 possession, that bail conditions ought to be significantly 25 stiffened.

1 MR. LEDERMAN: Thank you, Your Honor, I'm going
2 to try to limit my remarks to the issue of risk of flight
3 because I would suggest that much of what the Government has 4 stated here this afternoon, nothing other than muddy waters
5 as to this very point.

6 I spoke with Mr. Bell last week, at which point he 7 had informed me that he would be making this type of request 8 before this Court today which might serve to increase my 9 client's bail, might even result in his detention.
10 Notwithstanding that, my client is here this afternoon. And 11 I would suggest to this Court that there is no single better 12 indicia of lack of a risk of flight than my client's 13 appearance in court this afternoon.

14 I too am going to ask this Court to modify bail 15 but in a different direction. My client is currently on 16 home detention, obviously travel restrictions in the 17 district of Florida, in the northern. I'm going to ask this 18 Court to remove the restriction of home detention so that he 19 would be able to go out and earn a living and support his 20 wife and two children, ages three and four.

21 The only assets that my client has,
22 notwithstanding the fact that he's retained counsel, 23 consists of the equity in his home, one-half of which 24 already secures the bond that was issued in Florida, as well 25 as the money invested and the work invested in the

1 Tyrannosaurus which is sitting in a warehouse in Long Island
2 City.

3 The Government suggests that, even assuming that 4 they are right, which we do not concede, that my client has 5 all these fossils out there, the notion that anybody would 6 buy a single fossil from him at this point in time is 7 absurd. My client is radioactive when it comes to the issue 8 of being able to earn a living in his business which I'll 9 explain in a minute is legitimate.

10 The Government has repeated not once but twice the 11 unfortunate coincidence that, during the execution of the 12 search warrant, this enormous box appeared at his home. And 13 in it, as the Government has explained, there were about 400
14 pounds of fossilized remains. Not only is the Government 15 unable to declare to this Court whether those items were 16 stolen, they cannot even demonstrate that they were his, and 17 they unable to because they were not his. These were not 18 fossils which he owned. These were fossils that were not 19 consigned to someone else to sell with a purchaser in mind.
20 These were fossils owned by someone else, another dealer, 21 which in turn had returned to him for him to restore, which 22 Your Honor is his major source of business. This is what my 23 client does. He restores fossilized remains.

24 So the notion that he has out there these vast 25 resources of fossilized remains to sell is just not true.

1 The assets, as I said, are the two ones he has, and that is 2 the extent of it. The Government here for the first time 3 has presented a letter handwritten by my client which the 4 Government suggests is obstruction. The second sentence
5 says to this alleged coconspirator, I'm not asking you to 6 lie. Beyond that the Government says, well, the subject
7 matter in here refers to a fossilized remain that my client 8 could have easy access to. In fact, that's not in the 9 United States. It's abroad.

10 And the notion that my client has ties abroad is 11 equally untrue. He has no ties other than to where he 12 resides in Florida with his wife, his two children, his 13 mother and father live there, his whole life is there.

14 I'm not sure Your Honor's aware but there is a 15 parallel forfeiture action that is pending before Judge 16 Castel.

17 THE COURT: I've heard about it in the popular
18 press. That's all I know about it.

19 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes. And, again, if I can just 20 speak to the issue of the press, again, the fact that this 21 case has garnered sufficient amount of press would further 22 indicate that my client is completely unable at this time to 23 sell any fossilized remains, stolen or not, to anyone out 24 there knowing the Government is, you know, has him in their 25 sights.

1 As to this action pending before Judge Castel, 2 there has been enough skepticism about the validity of that 3 case that I think it bears mention, to the extent that the 4 Government suggests that in this case it somehow ties to the 5 risk of flight. Your Honor, I suggest to you that the 6 Government is going to be unable to prove that the 7 fossilized remains came from Mongolia. We are speaking 8 about a time when creatures roamed the earth without any 9 concept of nation, of nation states, of borders. Mongolia 10 has made the incredible leap that whatever is shipped from 11 there must be stolen, ipso facto. That is a hurdle the 12 Government will need proof.

13 And, in fact, as Your Honor alluded to earlier, 14 the government is involved in the sale of those fossils as 15 well. The dinosaurs tours, one can go into places there and 16 buy them.

17 The Government, for the first time, has presented 18 us with a letter 18 years ago, which, again, it somehow
19 tries to link to the notion of a risk of flight, but suffice 20 it to say that His Honor has pointed out the fact there was 21 no complaint from the owner of the land, and that is because 22 the owner of the land gave my client permission. And as a 23 matter of fact, my client is the one who discovered the 24 actual site where much of the excavation occurred. I think 25 this is uncorroborated information here from an entity that

1 really doesn't have any impact on whether or not my client
2 is a flight risk.

3 I would ask that the conditions of bail remain the 4 same. I just would like to address this number here in the 5 asset liability of 500,000. Well, again, Your Honor, only a 6 certain amount of that refers to the actual fossilized 7 remains; the other is the business itself - the goodwill, 8 the customer list, the network that my client has. All of 9 that information is somewhat speculative in terms of the net 10 worth, but in terms of, even if every single one referred to 11 a fossilized remain, my client, certainly now, has no access 12 and no ability to sell them on any market.

13 As my client is here this afternoon, I would ask 14 that my client's bail conditions be continued, that he be 15 removed from home detention so that he can find some job to 16 earn a living, and that routine supervision be imposed.
17 Thank you.

18 THE COURT: Let me just ask one other question --

19 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: Is there anyone else who could cosign
21 for him in Florida?

22 MR. LEDERMAN: I believe his mother and father
23 might be able to, Your Honor. Yes. Yes.

24 THE COURT: All right.

25 MR. BELL: May I be heard, Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: Go ahead, yeah.

2 MR. BELL: Mr. Lederman made some arguments as to 3 the strength of the Government's case which, of course, 4 always weighs on bail to some degree, particularly 5 concerning whether we'd be able to establish that these 6 dinosaurs are Mongolian in the first instance. As --

7 THE COURT: Well, let me just get - although it's 8 a fascinating discussion, let me get back to the risk of 9 non-appearance. I mean I'm looking at the Pre-Trial 10 Services report which indicates he's got about $1,700 in 11 cash, $1,500 in a checking account, $200 in cash. There's 12 now a lien on his residence to secure the bail bond, the 13 residence is not marketable. I mean is there really a risk 14 he's going to flee the country with, you know, let's assume 15 he's able to sell his car for $10,000, you know, he's got 16 $12,000.

17 MR. BELL: Your Honor, if he were able to on top 18 of that sell a tarbosaurus for $800,000, he would then have 19 $811,000.

20 THE COURT: Well --

21 MR. BELL: I mean the issue is that --

22 THE COURT: -- given the charges against him, do 23 you think that's gonna happen?

24 MR. BELL: I'm sorry? Well, Your Honor, I'd be 25 surprised in the abstract, and yet, and yet the attention

1 that Mongolia has given to this matter dates back to April.
2 The attention that Mr. Prokopi has received from United 3 States Attorney's Office dates back to June, June of this 4 year. And over the ensuring months, we've had active 5 dinosaur dealings as well, and I would submit that the 6 reason for that is because Mr. Prokopi really wants and 7 needs money, perhaps now more than ever, because his 8 tyrannosaur sale fell through, and he hasn't gotten the 9 million dollars through the Heritage Auction yet.

10 The note, and, again, this is a note that was 11 found at Mr. Prokopi's residence, not back in May, last week
12 indicates that he's trying to get this tarbo moved to Denver 13 so that it can be sold. If you're talking about the 14 possibility of that happening, then there's got to be some 15 possibility that Mr. Prokopi, despite the attention that's 16 currently being lavished upon him and perhaps with the 17 assistance of intermediaries, could wind up with a six 18 figure dinosaur being sold or multiple six figure dinosaurs 19 being sold.

20 We don't have much of a way of knowing at this 21 point, and I would submit that the real reason we don't is 22 because of the exact characterization that Mr. Prokopi gave 23 us when talking to the Heritage Auction is his emails
24 because he's a participant in a black market. But we do 25 know that the black market exists, we know that he's trying

1 to move a tarbosaur. We know that he's received, you know, 2 an oviraptor within the past week when law enforcement just 3 happened to be there. These are real concerns.

4 And I think that to consider the entirety of Mr.
5 Prokopi's financial means as just, you know, whatever, 6 $11,000, $15,000 shows up in the balance sheet, ignoring 7 both the $500,000 worth of fossils that he actually 8 acknowledges --

9 THE COURT: Well, I mean your adversary tells me
10 that's the entire value of the business, including goodwill.
11 Does the business sell anything besides fossils?

12 MR. BELL: Your Honor, my understanding, having 13 gone to the business' website, is that they also sell 14 certain exotic but relatively low value items, jewelry, the 15 occasional statue from Africa or Asia, that sort of thing.
16 If you're looking at this from a balance sheet standpoint,
17 the overwhelming majority of it would seem to be dinosaur 18 fossils. And I would submit that when you factor in --

19 THE COURT: Did dinosaur fossils come from 20 anyplace other than Mongolia?

21 MR. BELL: Do they ever?

22 THE COURT: I mean is there a legal source for 23 dinosaur fossils?

24 MR. BELL: Oh, yes, Your Honor. To be clear, the 25 Government isn't suggesting that the sale of dinosaur

1 fossils is per se illegal. But Mongolia, given the contours
2 of the facts that we represent in the complaint, should 3 automatically raise alarm bells. And as to Mr. Lederman's 4 claim that we can't establish that because a dinosaur could 5 have wandered off into some other part of Pangaea millions 6 of years ago, the problem with this is that there are 7 certain fossils that are only preserved, if they're within 8 certain soil that's only been found within the Nemegt Basin 9 of Mongolia. So even that dinosaur had wandered off, the 10 fossil would not have been preserved for Mr. Prokopi to 11 possess and subsequently try to sell.

12 The entire weight of science, as represented 13 within the complaint, is such --

14 THE COURT: I mean I think the legal authorities 15 you cite in the complaint go back to the 1920's though.
16 Were there not archeological expeditions to Mongolia before 17 the 1920's?

18 MR. BELL: Your Honor, I believe that the history 19 of the dinosaur itself that we also cite within the 20 complaint suggests that the dinosaur wasn't that - 21 tyrannosaurus bataar wasn't discovered until Mongolia began 22 implementing these laws. That is to say, Mongolia begins to 23 implement these national property laws in 1924. The 24 dinosaur, this particular dinosaur, certainly the one most 25 at the heart of this action, the tyrannosaurus bataar isn't

1 discovered until about 1948.

2 MR. LEDERMAN: Your Honor, if I may just very 3 briefly.

4 THE COURT: Yeah, go ahead.

5 MR. LEDERMAN: I just do want to address one
6 specific point because it smells back, the idea of a black 7 market, because it really gives a shroud over everything.
8 The Government's complaint doesn't speak to black market.
9 It speaks to misdeclaration. So my client is not involved 10 in a black market. There is an issue on the declaration of 11 importing these remains, not on the black market, but 12 through customs as to what is country of origin.

13 Now, there may be some and there will be certainly 14 some very difference of opinion as to what that means, but 15 that's not black market. And whether or not it is, again, 16 Your Honor, that is irrelevant as to the issue of flight.

17 MR. BELL: Your Honor, I'm reading from paragraph 18 24(f) of the complaint right now. This is Mr. Prokopi's 19 email --

20 THE COURT: What page are you on?

21 MR. BELL: This is on page 16.

22 THE COURT: One second. Go ahead.

23 MR. BELL: And this is after the action is 24 commenced. I'm reading about halfway through that block 25 quote. Mr. Prokopi's writes the following: "If the

1 Mongolian president is, indeed, only interested in getting 2 to the bottom of the sources and wants to look good for his 3 people, I think I can help him do that if he's willing to 4 cooperate and compromise. If he only wants to take the 5 skeleton and try to put an end to the black market, he will 6 have a fight and will only drive the black market deeper 7 underground. To the extent that there are 8 misrepresentations made on customs forms, that is only one 9 mechanism through which this black market functions."

10 MR. LEDERMAN: Your Honor --

11 THE COURT: Go ahead.

12 MR. LEDERMAN: If Mr. Bell had read the first 13 sentence, that might have assisted the Court in giving a 14 full understanding. "Although I am sure that everything 15 with the specimen is legal," is legal, "as far back as I can 16 tell," etc. What my client knows obviously is that what 17 he's trying to do is legal and that he's willing to assist 18 with the governments abroad in any black market there. This 19 paragraph in no way suggests --

20 THE COURT: Yeah.

21 MR. LEDERMAN: -- that it is inculpatory as to my 22 client. In fact, it's exculpatory because it indicates he 23 has an awareness of it, he's willing to help them even 24 though he knows that what he has done, or understands and 25 believes what he has done, is illegal.

1 (pause)

2 MR. BELL: Oh, Your Honor, may I be heard as to 3 one point --

4 THE COURT: Go ahead.

5 MR. BELL: -- that Mr. - Mr. Lederman mentioned 6 the possibility of being taken off of home confinement in 7 order for his business to continue. I haven't at this point
8 quite figured out exactly what part of Mr. Prokopi's 9 business makes it necessary that he actually leave his home.
10 He has a very --

11 THE COURT: Well, that puts the burden though on 12 the wrong side. I mean the Bail Reform Act says that the 13 court is supposed to set the least restrictive conditions
14 possible, and it's - the issue is not whether there's a need 15 to remove the condition of home confinement; the question is 16 is there a need for home confinement.

17 MR. BELL: And I would submit, Your Honor, that 18 with the cash - with the value of the bond being what it is 19 right now, there is. Because, again, if Mr. Prokopi could 20 have a million dollar tyrannosaurus sold and have the 21 windfall from that fall into his lap, a bond that has only 22 been cosigned by his business partner and wife --

23 THE COURT: Where is this second tyrannosaurus?

24 MR. BELL: The second tyrannosaurus, Your Honor, 25 isn't within, to be clear, it's not within the complaint.

1 It's been evidenced by our review of the emails, and we 2 believe the tyrannosaurus, the tarbo referenced in the notes
3 to Chris Moore that I handed up.

4 THE COURT: Do we know if this second skel - the 5 second tyrannosaurus exists? I mean do we know where it is 6 or if it's in the country?

7 MR. BELL: We believe it exists. We believe that 8 it's still in the country.

9 THE COURT: Anything else you want to tell me, 10 Mr. Bell?

11 MR. BELL: Not unless you have any questions, 12 Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: No. All right, Mr. Lederman, 14 anything else you want to tell me?

15 MR. LEDERMAN: No, Your Honor. Thank you.

16 THE COURT: All right. The overarching issue
17 here with respect to bail is the risk of non-appearance.
18 There's no issue here with respect to dangerousness to the 19 community. And with respect to bail, we are confronted or 20 we're face - we have the following hard facts. The 21 defendant is 38 years of age, he's lived in Florida his 22 entire life. His parents live in Florida, his half-brother 23 - does the half-brother live in Florida, Mr. Lederman?

24 MR. PROKOPI: Yes.

25 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Okay. His half-brother lives in 2 Florida. He's been married for 11 years. He has two minor 3 children. His liquid assets appear to be fairly modest. He 4 has no criminal record. And the case has given rise to a 5 fair level of notoriety. I know that at least the civil 6 action before Judge Castel has appeared in the popular
7 press, and I suppose to individuals who are knowledgeable 8 about the market in dinosaur fossils are probably aware of 9 Mr. Prokopi's involvement in the chain of title of the 10 fossils that are at issue in the case before Judge Castel.

11 I think there's substance, there's some substance 12 to both sides' arguments here. I think there's substance to 13 Mr. Lederman's argument that Mr. Prokopi's effectively
14 radioactive at this point and that no legitimate collector 15 of dinosaur fossils would have an interest in dealing with 16 him. And I'm not sure that there's a reasonable prospect 17 that he's got a dinosaur fossil that he's going to be able 18 to convert to vast sums of money.

19 At the same time I also think there's some 20 traction in Mr. Bell's argument that the only cosigner on 21 the bond right now is Mr. Prokopi's wife.

22 This is what I'm going to do with respect to bail.
23 I'm going to continue the bail conditions that were set in 24 Florida with the following amendments. The amount - Mr.
25 Lederman, is his half-brother willing to cosign?

1 MR. LEDERMAN: Your Honor, there may be an issue
2 as to whether or not he's financially responsible.

3 THE COURT: Well, it sounds like he's in a 4 position to exercise moral suasion though.

5 MR. LEDERMAN: That may be true.

6 THE COURT: Well, let me ask you this, is there 7 anyone --

8 MR. LEDERMAN: Again, his mother and father --

9 THE COURT: Yeah, the mother - mother and father 10 are 74 and 82, respectively. Is there anyone else who could 11 cosign for him?

12 MR. LEDERMAN: Possibly his wife's parents.

13 THE COURT: This is what I'm going to do. I'm 14 going to continue the bail conditions with the following 15 amendments. I'm going to raise the amount of the bond to 16 $250,000 and require that it be cosigned by one financially
17 responsible person or person in a position of moral suasion.

18 I'm also going to vacate the condition of home
19 detention. It's with electronic monitoring, Mr. Lederman?

20 MR. LEDERMAN: I don't believe so, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Okay, it's just home detention 22 without electronic --

23 MR. LEDERMAN: As of now, yes.

24 MR. BELL: There was - my understanding from the 25 Gainesville AUSA is that there was electronic monitoring but

1 that that electronic --

2 THE COURT: By random calls.

3 MR. BELL: -- was by phone --

4 THE COURT: Right, not a bracelet.

5 MR. LEDERMAN: Right.

6 MR. BELL: And not a bracelet, that Mr. Prokopi
7 didn't have a landline, so it was done using his cell phone, 8 such that they, for all practical purposes, couldn't 9 actually keep track of where he was.

10 THE COURT: All right. One other hard fact,
11 which I omitted in the recitation of hard facts, is the fact 12 that Mr. Prokopi also voluntarily surrendered today, and 13 that is a fact that it would be inappropriate to overlook.

14 MR. BELL: To clarify, Your Honor --

15 THE COURT: Well, let me just finish, okay?

16 MR. BELL: Sure.

17 THE COURT: So the amount of the bond is up to 18 $250,000 to be cosigned by one financially responsible 19 person or person in position to exercise moral suasion. I'm 20 vacating the condition of home detention. Does his wife 21 have a passport, Mr. Lederman?

22 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes, Your Honor, she does.

23 THE COURT: Is there any objection to her
24 surrendering her passport?

25 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes, Your Honor, we have no

1 objection.

2 THE COURT: I'm also going to direct that the 3 wife's passport be surrendered. All right, in all other 4 respects, the bail terms set in Florida will remain in 5 force. What did you want to say, Mr. Bell?

6 MR. BELL: For clarification, Your Honor, you're 7 imposing bail to be - a bond to be cosigned a financially
8 responsible person or a person who can provide moral 9 suasion?

10 THE COURT: Yes.

11 MR. BELL: Is that person to be someone other 12 than Mr. Prokopi's wife?

13 THE COURT: Well, this is one - I intended one 14 additional cosigner.

15 MR. BELL: Okay --

16 THE COURT: In addition to his wife. All right, 17 does that answer your question, Mr. Bell?

18 MR. BELL: It does, thank you, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Mr. Lederman, did you want to --

20 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes, Your Honor, Pre-Trial
21 Services asked me to ask the Court whether or not it's going 22 to impose routine supervision in Florida as well, and also -

24 THE COURT: I thought that's already in place.

25 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes, it is, if you're going to 1 change that or not, and I would ask that it remain the same.

2 THE COURT: No, I wasn't going to change that.

3 MR. LEDERMAN: And also I'm assuming there are 4 travel restrictions that this Court will impose?

5 THE COURT: Well, the travel restrictions - I'm 6 sorry, I thought --

7 MR. BELL: I think there had been travel
8 restrictions before, covering the Southern District of 9 Florida --

10 MR. LEDERMAN: Northern District.

11 MR. BELL: I'm sorry, the Northern District of 12 Florida, the Southern District of New York and I guess 13 points in between for purposes of travel?

14 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes --

15 THE COURT: Northern District of Florida,
16 Southern District of New York, Eastern District of New York, 17 and intervening districts for travel.

18 MR. LEDERMAN: Yes.

19 THE COURT: All right. Anything else - and the 20 cosigners are to sign within a week, the additional 21 cosigners to sign within a week. Anything else from the 22 Government?

23 MR. BELL: No, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Mr. Lederman, anything else?

25 MR. LEDERMAN: No, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: All right, Mr. Prokopi - what'd you
2 want to say?

3 MR. BELL: I guess there is the matter of a 4 preliminary hearing date.

5 THE COURT: We're going to get to that in one
6 second. Mr. Prokopi, bail terms have been set. Basically,
7 the bail terms that have been set in Florida will continue
8 with a few amendments. The amount of the bail, the amount 9 of the bond is being upped to $250,000, and you need to find 10 an additional cosigner who's either financially responsible 11 or in a position to exercise moral suasion. I'm vacating 12 the condition of home detention. And your wife's passport
13 also needs to be surrendered to the Pre-Trial Services 14 Agency.

15 I want to advise you that if you fail to appear in 16 court whenever you're required to or if you violate any 17 other condition of your release, a warrant will issue for 18 your arrest, you and your cosigners will be liable for the 19 full amount of the bond, and you could be charged with the 20 offense of bail jumping. You could be separately prosecuted 21 and separately sentenced for bail jumping even if the 22 conspiracy and the other charges currently pending against 23 you are dismissed. Do you understand that?

24 MR. PROKOPI: Yes.

25 THE COURT: Preliminary hearing date, 20 or 30?

1 MR. LEDERMAN: Thirty, Your Honor, it'll be 2 waived.

3 THE COURT: Mr. Bell, is that going to go from 4 today or from the date of the arrest in Florida?

5 MR. BELL: I always get hung up on that one, Your 6 Honor. I --

7 THE COURT: I'm sorry?

8 MR. BELL: I think that it's from today.

9 THE COURT: Any objection to it being from today?

10 MR. LEDERMAN: No, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right, so that'll go till 12 November 21. All right, anything else from the Government?

13 MR. BELL: No, Your Honor, thank you.

14 MR. LEDERMAN: No, Your Honor, thank you.

15 THE COURT: Thank you.

16 (Whereupon the matter is adjourned.)
